I highly recommend Martin Harvey as a translator and editor for any potential work. He did a great job translating “Tango, esa ansiosa búsqueda de la libertad”. He showed genuine interest in understanding the subtleties of tango as a dance and thus rendered an optimized version of what the author, Rodolfo Dinzel, intended to convey in his book. He finished well before the deadline so that my expectations were more than fulfilled. He also translated our page into English, a work for which I am most pleased and satisfied.
